Why Remote Techs?

For the right company on a rapid growth schedule ... the cloud can be a great tool. It takes a practiced eye to determine the benefit of cloud providers and to implement the systems required for businesses on those platforms. Companies that don't read the fine print will realize that few if any cloud providers perform backups on their customer's data and systems; and that it is up to the customer to add those protections in place. Knowing your cloud provider well and working with them on a frequent basis shows the strengths and weaknesses that each provider brings to the table. A careful choice can lead to limitless growth without capital expenditures. The wrong choice can lead to catastrophe. Give us a call if you think that the cloud might be a good move for your business.
